Seven Points to Consider about the “Canonization” of Paul VI

Deacon Gerry Palermo · 8 months ago

The new and explosive revelation of Saint JP II and his error in judgement regarding the dismissive approach to the sex abuse allegations against Cardinal Theodore E. McCarrick is very depressing.

His experience with Communist propaganda assault on priests did not properly inform him as to these legitimate allegations.

A very sad day.

EXCLUSIVE: Interview on “Fratelli Tutti” with Bishop Athanasius Schneider

Deacon Gerry Palermo ➔ cs · 8 months ago

Ok printed out and read again.

I am so grateful for The Bishop Schneider's interview. Certainly very valid observations.

Makes me wonder if the encyclical went through enough internal review before posting. The best work goes through vigorous review.

I am sure Bishop and Pope could have collaborated in advance.

For myself I will also make sure to keep a clear supernatural horizon.

Thank you Diane Montagna!!

Pope Francis pleases the world – and trashes Catholicism

Deacon Gerry Palermo ➔ Jim Sember · 8 months ago

Thanks! I guess I'm reading this encyclical in the context of 28th week ordinary and Sunday 29th week. Jesus chastises all week on the excesses of law then we read render into Caesar what belongs.

I took a more passive view that he wants to reengage at the basics of the Commandments with the non-believers as foundational building blocks.

Almost getting back to Noahide law if you will.

Maybe the complaint should be 'How low do we go to achieve dialog?'

Very helpful. Thank you for your responses!!!

Fixing my response. I understand you. Trent approval for capital punishment is affirming the sanctity of life by way of judicial enforcement. Thanks. I must have been in shock not to read it clearly the first time. Did you want to comment on relativism question? That phenomena is post Trent.

Thanks again!!!

Two discussion items, please.

1. What is your opinion on the teaching of the inadmissibility of capital in punishment reasserted since the CCC was changed years ago?

2. Although muddled, what did you think of his attempt to refactor the Absolutism -v- Relativism divide by suggesting we must discover new methods of journeying with non-believers while preserving Absolutism and rejecting Relativism?

ARCHBISHOP VIGANÒ: On Vatican II & Bishop Barron's Word on Fire

Deacon Gerry Palermo ➔ Rod Halvorsen · 10 months ago

Reread. I love them both.

- 1) Both Benedict and Francis are searching for the 'less than' solution that doesn't do violence to scripture/doctrine. Francis is more expansive leveraging the temporary missionary strategy.
- 2) I can see your point. His examples can be construed to mean sincere simulation of marriage is marriage. No. No. No. However setting a pathway from simulation to actual is appropriate.
- 3)Yes.

The annulment process has become a broken unused path. I agree with both Ben dict and Francis that a juridical approach is the wrong setting for most cases.

That was an articulate and easily accessible reply. Thank you!

The phrase in question perhaps was misunderstood? "we must remain faithful to the today of the Church, not the yesterday or tomorrow" scope of meaning was to address the two extremes. The one extreme, the Council went too far, and the other extreme the Council didn't go far enough.

It cannot be construed to have the deeper meaning of fracture you propose.

Japan's Fight for the Right to Life

Deacon Gerry Palermo → Gerry. · 10 months ago

Hi Gerry! Great citation!

It is generally understood that infants in the womb are already conscience and some freedom. Mary and Elizabeth and John joyful in the womb is a good example.

Infants in the womb do not have access to baptism. It would seem being unable in the extreme to receive baptism, complicates the situation. I'm not trying to reignite the Pelagian heresy.

Referenced: The Hope of Salvation For Infants Who Die Without Being Baptized.

Thomas's solution (nor Augustine's solution) does not appear to be the final answer.

Thank you for reading.

In regards to progressive people, they are attacked by the right with evocative words like "leftists", "communists", etc....They have used the words as political clubs for so long they have lost all real meaning and are only meant as amorphous shadows to cast over one's opponents in order to discredit what they are saying without having to do the legitimate work of actually refuting their arguments.

VIGANÒ on REVOLUTION in the CHURCH: “From Vatican II onwards, a parallel church was built...”

Deacon Gerry Palermo → Adrian Johnson · a year ago

Interesting reading. Thank you.

332s2 also says but not that it is accepted by anyone.

It would seem to me he freely acted and attempted at least to communicate his intention to resign (further attested by his lack of challenge to the status quo).

'not accepted by anyone' seems to void attempts to say his act is lacking form as sufficient to force invalidating his intention.

Ergo, a defect without needing remedy.

But I'm not a canon lawyer.

Deacon Gerry Palermo ➔ Adrian Johnson · a year ago

This came out today. What do you think of it?

<https://www.americamagazine...>

↑ ↓ ViewView in discussion

Deacon Gerry Palermo ➔ Adrian Johnson · a year ago

Hi Adrian. When I consider modernism (agnosticism) and the Council, I don't get to the same conclusion.

Considering Pope Pius X and Pope Pius XII, I note that Pope Pius XII was often used as reference in the Constitutions.

In the following areas, I see no conflicts, i.e., no trace of modernism:

Baptism

Divinity of Christ

Teaching Authority of Church

Confirmation

Eucharist

Hierarchy

Knowledge of God

Matrimony

Penance

Primacy

Resurrection

Sacraments

There is some debate (reasonable discontent) on dogma in regards dogma formalis and dogma materialia, post council.

Specifically, there is continuous accidental development of expression and development of obscurity resolutions.

That is why I mentioned a class for this. Categorically outlining:

Propositio haeretice

Propositio heresi proxima

Prop erronea

Prop False

Prop temeraria (temerity)

So on and so forth.

Omitting please wrapping civil matters (kneeling at football games) from a false dogmatic implication.

I think this method would bring root cause to light.

What do you think?

what do you think.

Dogmatic and Constitution.

It must be held in some way to be dogmatic at a substantial level.

Otherwise, word salad.

Hard to reconcile Tucker Carlson summary comment with WHO official statement. Or to be blunt, gaslighting like a boss, Tucker. Best you take your vacation now.

Here in PBC we use a multi tiered strategy: economic incentive to quarantine (rent, food for family), in-home isolation choice with sanitation supplies, room barriers, PPE for the family, disinfectant, and UVC light treatment for the home. We supply over 24 different products and education and home wellness checks.

We don't force anyone. We empower in-home isolation with what they need to protect one another

Tucker, you spread fear like it's a game. What do you get paid to be so evil? My pal wants to know. He'll be here shortly. I think he wants a pay raise for the mayhem he produces correcting everyone's grammar.

Archbishop Viganò Responds to an Open Letter of Criticism

A death is a death. I used two numbers

Number of positives

Number of deaths

Can you provide these two numbers, cite your source please.

All you are doing is discounting and explaining away deaths. The USA adds 20,000 seniors every day (aging boomers) so that isn't a solid vector.

Actually, we would need 550,000 antibody positive not previously reported Covid-19 positive cases to get to 0.0056 infection rate.

The antibody testing. I hear that.

But to extrapolate these numbers you would need a huge number of antibody positive, non-covid-19 positive/tested people. A unique reporting thread not made public.

That is the only way mathematically.

Johns Hopkins is using expertise method of extrapolation, not sampling.

Putting all our hope in his selection for Supreme Court Justices and other critical posts was and is ill advised.

Basically the strategy is to trust a undesirable person with critical choices at an extreme cost to our society.

We'll have gained nothing and lost everything.

Still I stand by the disappointment at the letter in the least for it's insensitivity for the social upheaval regards race and management of the pandemic.
